Judges 5:31 "Let shame fall on that man that looked upon his own when he went forth in his might."

This is a triumphal exultation of an army returning from a victory.
Jabin 2nd and Sisera his captain with a large army and 900 chariots of iron to subdue Deborah and Barak leaders of Israel's army. With 10,000 men Barak puts the hosts of Sisera to route in the plains of Edraecho. The prophets, Deborah inspires a song in celebration The victory. The last thought of the song, like the climax of a grandoration, bursts forth in the eloquence and beauty of the text. Let them that love him to as the sun when he giveth forth in his might.' What a beautiful and instructive
let us note some of the many lessons the text Teaches us.
In the first place I notice how the sun drives darkness before it. In the great roundups on the range, the boys awakened early while it was day to feed and saddle their horses and to eat their breakfast around the campfire. Presently the stars grow dim, the darkest part of the night is upon them. You can almost feel the intense darkness. The sun is pushing the dense blackness before it. All animals stand still and apparently sleep for a few minutes, not a tingle of the ears.
on loose animals of cariboles that it heard kept the woods resonant all the night through as to be heard. Like a dense fog is driven before a stiff breeze as the darkness flees before the sun. It is light chasing darkness. So let them that love the Lord be as the sun when his youth hath in his might. We should be so filled with the brighter of the glory of God that all that which is symbolized by darkness would flee

before us as darkness does before the sun.

man should be able to act his worst in the presence of those who love God. Where Christ enters, Judas acts white. The sun appeared in the east. It drove darkness from Asia Minor, from Greece, from Rome, from Germany, from the British Isles. It has crossed the ocean and driven darkness from the lost lands into S.A. Darkness is now rolling away from the Pacific Islands and Asia. Soon Africa will hear the sunlight upon its forests.
So let them that love God be as the sun when he goeth forth in his might driving darkness before him.

In the second place I note the sun announces its approach not by a voice but by what it is! Thence the hills of the Institute are seen some of the most picturesque sunrises of the world. Alpine sunrises may surpass in their grandeur but they cannot in the marvelous blending of colors. The various shades of red, orange, yellow, green and blue are
As mingled as blended by omnipotence, while the prismatic clouds float through horizons of fire that cannot be painted do wonder weather people worship the sun. For its beauty and repeatedly new paintings in the heavens we thank the Lord and from it we take another lesson. Those who love the Lord should announce their presence not by what they say but by what they are. To the least observer a man is known before you see him.
You can tell it by the wholesome atmosphere. You can see it in the town in which he lives. He enters this home not as a place for mere sleeping, eating and communion with his family, but as a step of conscious reality. He worships for the town, church, and home not merely to further his own interests, but for the good he can do for others. You feel deep for having had a talk with him. His wholesome personality impresses you and you feel that you have talked with a True man. It is best seen in a classroom. A teacher is remembered not by what he says but by what he is. He teaches out of firmness, gentleness, knowledge and humility. Hope in and love into a deep conviction and belief in Jesus Christ. He teaches a proven view life of his pupils to the end of their days. He can give, light and treat warmth.
Because it is a man of firming substance. So let all that ever you had been the sun—soul, body and mind a flaming fire sending forth light to all around.
In the 2nd place, Hercules love you and did like the sun, make the paths of life pleasant, bright and cheerful for others. There was once a splendid boy whose sleep the light of the moon stole away from him, and while he slept, he was led and trailed from the woods.
out on the range.

and losing grasp. His hair tracks became invisible.

The shepherd lowered till he was tiptoe to no avail. He laid himself down exhausted on the ground and waited for the sunlight which made the path plain. He lost the path because the moonlight was not sufficient, not clear.

David.
in God, assurance of God's presence make the dark places of life bright not only for yourself but for those who are seeking to find the path to glory. They are wandering in darkness and need the light. They are like lost sheep - of course they broke away from the fold - it was their fault - they did not consider that woods are filled with wolves. They knew that they would go so far. Now they are lost. It is night. The path back has faded out in the darkness. But the sunlight came in on their darkness. The path will shine to clear and plain. It is an awful thing to let an animal which has gone astray. It is a shame for many fellow to afflict that man who has gone astray. By God Jesus Christ can remove the black spot that has clouded and darkened your life. Let the sun of righteousness rise in. As a rule the light of Christ will come. Are you thinking that light through some one or is your life dark?
The sun imparts strength, where the plant life has plenty of sun light it grows, inferior if of heat light and it sickness dies. So should thus impart strength to others. Let man not love God as the sun in giving of their strength, of their brightness of their elixir to the world in the 4th place. The sun shines for all, rich and poor, animate and inanimate life. The highest peak and the lowest it valley share its rays. The broadest plain and the narrow gorge, the oceans and the lands, the deserts and the gardens, the moon and stars as well as the earth are all alike partakes of the same light. The sun shines for them all alike without distinction. Send your light to all the world, making houses, people and nations better. Yes, the light of our sun shines for only our friends and for the world, said Jesus. It is a glorious privilege to shine for all the world. In the old place, the sun is regular and faithful in its duty. It is never behind time. It rises on time, sets on time. When the clouds cross its face, it still shines on as though there were no clouds. It is just the same now as it was when its rays first warmed existence. It has not lost a single moment of time in the millions of years. It can always be conducted on, always when it ought to be, fulfilling God's command perfectly. When you go out — look up at the sun and let it speak to you. The word of fidelity, the word of its Creator, the unницered sun, your day and age, does his creator's power display and publish to every man. The work of an Almighty God.
In the last place I notice the sun sets in still greater glory than it rose. If the sunrise was beautiful the sunset is multiplied beauty. The sunsets have ever charmed painters. You may never see the great masterpieces of art produced by man. You can go out in the evening and see the world's greatest painting stretched out not in canvas but spread from west to east, north to south.
no colors the same for two moments but a ever changing scene. It is the soft touch of dying day on the black clouds and blue sky, leaving the clouds silver lined and the sky streamers of gold.
Let us as strong the sun says to us; "I have done my best, I rose in gladness to clear your awakening. I passed on for giving you strength for weakness. I now set in glory to rise again."
So shall they who love God... go down at The evening tide of life amidst the glories of a well spent day... go down full of glory and honor and brightness, full of faith, hope and lovers. Go down and like the sun to rise again in a day where brightness shines through eternity and where glory and beauty reigns in all the sum To rise again in Christ's likeness for a day that needs no light of the sun, for the had God given sun, light and story shall reign forever ever in the celestial home of eternal light.

 Judges 5:31 **

This is a triumphant soliloquy, Sisera’s army, 900 chariots > Israel, Deborah’s Resolt, 10000 defeat, or 1 plains of Zedadon.
Deborah sings the song of Jud. 5:31.

The Sun in his might:
1. Drives darkness away.
   Establishes light of day.

2. Sun announces itself not by voice but by radiations.

3. The Sun makes all paths clear and plain.

4. The Sun imparts cheer and courage.

5. The Sun is constant, regular, faithful.

6. The Sun rose in brightness.
   Sets in greater glory.
